Mungovan Opposes Loading Town With Power Debentures

COUNCIL APPROVES PURCHASE OF NEW SWITCHBOARD

ARGUES WITH MAYOR

Some time ago the town council gave its approval to the expenditure by the water and light committee, as recommended by the McClymont report, of $9,000 on the sub-station, including switchboard, lightning arresters, spare circuit and alterations to the building.

The committee came back to the town council on Monday evening for another vote of authority to go ahead with some of these expenditures.

The council approved accepting the tender of English Electric Co., St. Catharines, for construction of a switchboard for $5,741, and the purchase by H. R. McClymont of additional equipment at a cost of $1,017.

Councillor J. L. Spillette and Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale moved the necessary resolution.

"In view of the war it is all the more imperative that we put in a new switch-board," said Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale.

"There is a danger of an interruption of service at the present time," said Mr. Vale. "If anything should happen, I think we would be condemned not only in the court of public opinion but also in every other kind of court, for not taking the advice of Mr. McClymont and Mr. Rachar."

"I think that it is quite a compliment to Mr. Rachar that he is qualified to install such a complicated board," said Dr. Boyd. "I also want to pay tribute to the water and light committee."

"Mr. Lundy and I don't think that debentures should be loaded on the town," said Councillor D. O. Mungovan.

"It will have to be paid for with debentures," said Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd. "This couldn't be paid for this year or next. Experience has shown that with things which will last for many years the fairest way is to spread payment out over a number of years with debentures. People move into town and move out, and some people would get the benefit of it without paying a part of the cost."

"There is every possibility that we will be able to pay for it out of current revenue, with the money paid to us by the Hydro," said Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale.

"Mr. Mayor, you say debentures are the best way of financing," said Councillor Mungovan. "You will have to admit that debentures are the reason that so many municipalities are in trouble. Another point is that we don't know that people ten years hence will want what we want. Look at the municipalities that are still paying for radials. If municipalities had to pay cash for undertakings, they would not rush into things."

Man Put His Pick Through Death Wire Without Injury

TOWN LACKS POWER FOR TWO HOURS DURING REPAIRS

The town was without electric power late Friday afternoon and was in darkness in the early evening as a result of a cable break on the Ontario Hydro-Electric's side of the sub-station.

Town employees effected temporary repairs, and early Saturday morning the power was off again for half an hour while the Hydro put in a heavier cable. Repairs were finally completed, with another short interruption in the service, on Saturday afternoon.

"Why did the lights go out Friday night?" asked Councillor D. O. Mungovan at a town council meeting Monday evening.

"We weren't trying a black-out," said Mr. Evans. "A workman for the International Water Supply Co. drove his pick through a plank, and fortunately on account of the wooden handle no one was killed. It was the Hydro's cable."

"That wooden box isn't good enough," said Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd.

"The power went off at five to five. It was on in the houses at least at seven. No one seemed to know that the cable was there."

The workman who put his pick into the cable was Bernard J. Henning, Toronto.

In answer to another question, Mr. Evans said that the company was down 268 feet with its water test-hole, and that its charge was $1.50 a foot.

SERVICES RECALLED

In its "In Days of Yore" column the Brockville Recorder and Times publishes a war-time picture of A. M. Colville, R. R. 3, Newmarket, with the words: "A. M. Colville, a Brockville man who served overseas as a company sergeant-major with the 38th battalion in the Great War, suffering gas poisoning and being awarded the Military Medal."

BUGLERS WILL PLAY

R.S.A. bugle band has been engaged to play at the Balmly Beach-Sarnia game in Toronto on Thanksgiving.

THINKS POLICE OUGHT TO HAVE A NIGHT OFF

A question as to why the town constables are employed for seven nights a week, was asked by Councillor D. O. Mungovan at a town council meeting Monday evening.

"The men want to do the extra nights to earn the extra money," said Councillor Wm. Dixon, chairman of the police committee.

"They can't do efficient work, working seven days a week," said Mr. Mungovan. "I don't object to them getting extra money. We should have another man on the force. We are paying so much for extra time."

"I see Datus Crowder doing police duty sometimes," said Councillor J. L. Spillette. "Why is it I never see a bill for his extra time?"

When he works at night, he takes the time off in the day, explained Mr. Dixon.

Mr. Dixon thought that the town would have to consider appointment of a third constable, in view of anti-sabotage duties.

FIRE WASTES, PREVENT FIRE, PLEADS CHIEF

EVERY CITIZEN SHOULD HELP TO PREVENT FIRES, SAYS CHIEF

LOSS IS HEAVY

"In Canada and the United States the week of Oct. 8 to 14 is being observed as fire prevention week," Fire Chief W. W. Osborne told The Era this week. "The Dominion Fire Prevention Association in co-operation with provincial fire marshals, local fire chiefs and others are working with civic organizations in the furtherance of the aims of fire prevention."

"In times of peace it has been considered a patriotic duty to prevent fires in order to conserve our national resources. How much more so is it in times of war? And fire is as devastating as war and just as wasteful."

"About 300 people are burned to death and a much larger number are injured by fire in Canada every year. The recorded loss of property by fire in Canada during the 15 years, 1923 to 1933, exceeded $570,000,000. In other words, at our present burning rate, approximately one human life is sacrificed and $100,000 worth of property is destroyed every day in the year."

"Fire is no respecter of persons. Every man has a responsibility towards his neighbors and that responsibility should cause every right-thinking person to pause and consider what he owes the community in which he lives. We owe it to ourselves, but in a greater degree to our fellow-citizens to permit no condition to exist upon our premises that will invite a visitation of fire. A great majority of fires are so easy to prevent that it is certainly a moral crime to tolerate the things which bring them about."

"Cities and towns, like individuals, reap what they sow. To permit the creation of fire-traps, to fail to provide an abundant and reliable water supply and means of using it or to fail to apply the everyday rules of fire prevention, is to constantly face a menace of heavy fires and sweeping conflagrations."

"Why tolerate a condition which not only leaves tribute upon life and property but in effect imposes an added cost to the conduct of every feature of business activity and increases the burden of the people in providing the necessities of life?"

"We cannot afford to go on and be indifferent to it all. Fire prevention week is a particular week set aside to call attention to the menace of fire. And we should be prepared to battle that terrible demon—fire. Are you doing your part?"

TOWN SELLS OFF-PEAK POWER TO INDUSTRY

The town council gave its approval to an expenditure of $1,000 for pilot wires to control the sale of off-peak power to business firms, at a town council meeting on Monday evening.

"At a cost of $1,000 we could run a pilot wire and supply off-peak power to certain manufacturers," said Councillor A. D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee. "At the present time there are about four or five people very much interested."

"This is a carefully worked out idea," said Mayor Boyd. "It will help us with our peak load, and it will help our manufacturers to compete. I think our taxpayers should appreciate what is being done for them."

Mr. Vale said that certain manufacturers now "on the peak" were ready to take off-peak power in return for a reduction in rates. He said that the pilot wire expense of $1,000 would pay for itself in six months.

Mr. Evans secured the council's approval for the placing of the town's order now for two transformers and copper wire for use next year, delivery to be taken within six months, to avoid price increases.

Mr. Evans said that since Sept. 12 a war tax of eight per cent had become effective on domestic light bill.

"Each bill will have to be figured separately for the first month," said Mr. Mathews. "It will mean a delay."

PLAY MONDAY

There will be a mixed troubles (any combination) tournament at Newmarket bowling greens on Monday. The first game will be in the morning, starting at 10 a.m. There will be two games in the afternoon.

Light To Be Cut Off After Three Months, Is Council Ruling

NOTICE WILL BE MAILED TO HOUSEHOLDER, BY NEW RULING

"WASH DAY" IS OUT

Two citizens appeared before the town council on Monday evening to complain that their electric service had been cut off that morning without warning. One of them, a woman, said that the service had been discontinued when she was in the middle of her washing.

Another woman phoned the council chamber while the council session was in progress to find out if her service had been disconnected or whether something had gone wrong with it. It had been cut off.

As a result of the discussion the council adopted the following rules by resolution:

1. That no service be disconnected on a Saturday or Monday.
2. That notices of intention to cut off be mailed at least five days before service is discontinued.
3. That all persons three months in arrears be cut off in future.

"This is a severe punishment to have the power cut off," said Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd.

"It seems a very unfair system," said Councillor D. O. Mungovan. "I thought we had

The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the drawing-room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. Wilbert Dew.

The bride was becomingly attired in a street-length dress of Robin Hood blue crepe and carried a bouquet of butterfly roses and maiden-hair fern. "A Message of Loyalty and Good-Will"

"Dear Sirs: At this time when all that is dearest to you and your people, as well as those of the French, Polish, and other nations, etc., are faced with the grim realities which constitute the perils of war, which to say the least is a catastrophe of indescribable magnitude unknown so far to this world, the main cause of which is 'Hitlerism', we join the several millions of free peoples in sending to you and yours our cordial greetings."

(The scribe, running out of ink, and being a doctor's son, made good use of a bottle of iodine to pen his letter to The Era.)

McKenzie Island, Ont. Sept. 24, 1939.

Dear Andrew:

A blizzard in miniature swept down on us from nowhere today and refuses to abate. The old stove in the bunkhouse is throwing out a pleasant, comforting warmth and the low hum of conversation is punctuated by an occasional gust of wind from outside. Scotty, our artist of the accordion, with a few pardonable discords, is giving out on "Home Sweet Home," and somehow a clinder has found his way into the big Swede's eye. (If this fairly reeks of pathos, blame it on the inclemency of the weather.)

Then again, Andrew, don't be misled into reading romance into my version of the north; it takes only a few weeks for the star dust to scatter and practical reality to settle in its place. Take, for example, the gold mining industry; astonishing as it may seem, gold mining, when stripped of its glamor, has all the economic characteristics of the humble grocery business. Money does not grow on trees here; nor do grizzled prospectors wander around with pack-horses in tow and thousand-dollar bills in their pockets. Perhaps, the above doesn't disillusion you and you know this already. What I'm trying awkwardly to say, Andrew, is that my first impressions were far from being exact. I seem to be putting the cart before the horse. It's quite possible that you would like me to

"Bill" Jelley Wins 1939 Junior County Crown For N.H.S.

SPLENDID FALL DAY MARKS NEWMARKET'S WIN AT FIELD MEET

RECORDS BROKEN

By RALPH M. ADAMS

With old set smiling his best, the N. H. S. track team regained the Eckhardt trophy, emblematic of track supremacy in the county, on Wednesday at Richmond Hill. The warm, autumn weather seemed to agree with the purple and gold standard-bearers and, spurred on by the promise of a dance on Friday, if they brought home the bacon, they made every chance count to amass the total of 127 points.

Bill Jelley, Newmarket, winner of the junior county crown, scored no less than 41 points for local high school, breaking three records of long standing. This boy smashed the pole-vault in the morning and topped the day off by breaking the old marks in the broad-jump and hop, step and jump.

Myles McInnis also stood out in the junior field, registering 12 points. In the senior boys' division Evans shone with a record-breaking high jump, while Helen O'Halloran and Mary McComb were the stars of the girls' divisions.

Although the conditions under which the sprints were held were not the best, the sprinters should be given great credit for their efforts. Some of the sprinters were no doubt hampered running on the turf instead of dirt and I feel that some of the track marks would have taken a beating under better circumstances. Every school gave all they had and I, for one, heard no kicking or poor sportsmanship out of any of the athletes and not so many spectators.

Detailed results will be found on Page 4.

FRIENDS HONOR COUPLE ON 25TH ANNIVERSARY

A very enjoyable evening was spent on Saturday, Sept. 30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Boyd, Botsford St., where a group of friends gathered, the occasion being Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Boyd's silver wedding anniversary.

A short address and presentation of a silver flower basket and bouquet of 25 red roses was made to the "bride and groom." John Purdy acted as master of ceremonies and the presentations were made by Mrs. George McCannan and Miss Catherine Boyd. Mr. Boyd replied feelingly to the address and expressed on behalf of Mrs. Boyd and himself their appreciation of the beautiful gifts and the value of friends and friendships without which life would be very bare.

The evening was spent in games, cards and other amusements and concluded with a delightful luncheon, a feature of which was a daintily inscribed and decorated wedding cake, the gift of Mrs. Boyd's sister, Miss Catherine Ford of Belleville.

ONE-WAY STREET SUGGESTION

The suggestion regarding Main St. traffic made by "Observer" in last week's Era has merit. The suggestion was that Main St. from Water to Park should be made a one-way street, for north-bound traffic, with angle parking on the east side of the street, no parking on the west side, and south-bound traffic diverted to Church St. We have two comments to make. The first is that as Main St. is a county pavement it would be necessary to secure county approval for such a scheme. The second is that as Church St. now stops at D'Arcy, it would be desirable that it be extended through to Eagle St. It would not be desirable, alternatively, that D'Arcy be improved through to Lorne Ave., as that would send traffic through a recreation area, the tennis courts, bowling green, ball field and new Lions club park.

Let's Consider It

Another possibility is that the town should secure the radial right-of-way from Park Ave. to Eagle St. and turn it into a new street to take the southbound traffic. At any rate, "Observer's" suggestion has merit, and could be tried out without any expense, except the purchase of a few signs. Main St. merchants would be in the happy position of having all the lake-bound traffic passing along Main St. with convenient angle parking available. Southbound, homeward-bound, lake cottagers are not potential shoppers. Main St. north of Park Ave. could be widened to handle both north and south traffic.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

If the report from the attorney-general's department concerning Aurora's traffic law enforcement turns out to be as indicated in the daily press, then there exists a sad state of affairs. Although Aurora's mayor has not yet received a copy of this report, apparently Mr. H. R. Polson has furnished a copy to the Ontario Motor League, an organization which apparently upholds law-breakers and decries law-enforcers. The report is to the effect that Aurora maintains "speed-traps," a term which begs the question. When the term is translated into "measured distances," it is possible to look at the question fairly. Is there any fairer way to time a speeder?

The Real Question

But surely it doesn't matter how a police officer discovers that motorists are disregarding the speed limit. Surely it is wrong of motorists to exceed the Aurora speed limit by ten miles an hour, just as it is wrong for motorists to exceed the Toronto or highway speed limits by five miles an hour. The difference is that Aurora is a small town and an influential organization like the Motor League can make an attack on a small town and get away with it. The Motor League does not try to attack the Toronto police or the provincial police, who are both much more strict than the Aurora police. The towns of Aurora and Newmarket permit a speed up to 45 miles an hour in their outskirts and then find the attorney-general's department lined up against them in their attempt to keep speeds down to that figure. The logical step for the province is to raise the speed limit in towns to 50 miles an hour. And see how long the government responsible would last.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO

There is more merit in Councillor Mungovan's argument about debentures than our business majors, Dr. S. J. Boyd, is yet ready to admit. Mr. Mungovan would have the town toward a pay-as-you-go financing policy, so far as that is possible under existing Ontario legislation. In western Canada many municipalities operate without a cent of debenture debt. They look ahead, and foreseeing the need for new schools and public works they accumulate a reserve, so that when the need arrives they buy or build with cash.

Not a Complete Answer

Dr. Boyd gave the logical argument that as future generations will share in the benefits of what we build they should help to pay for our undertakings. But the future generations would not get away soot free. They would be paying for undertakings which their successors would enjoy. Once the pay-as-you-go system is established there is no difference between it and the present system, except that the pay-as-you-go system means more careful spending. Instalment buying is no better for municipalities than for individuals. It leads us all into misery.

We Have Debts Enough

When we are afraid that our children will not have enough to pay for, we should remember our federal and provincial debts, incurred in war-time and peace-time, with little to show in the way of assets against these debts. If we were to free our municipalities from debt, that would be a little return to our children for the other wrongs we have done them.

Vision Needed

Dr. Boyd is rightly concerned about keeping down the tax-rate. The public will give him credit for it, but it will be even more ready to give him credit for keeping down the debenture debt. Pay-as-you-go is an idea that will need a lot of selling, but it is not hopeless to put over in a town that could be sold, and was sold, on the serial debenture system (a splendid start on pay-as-you-go financing).

THE NEW DEFENCE MINISTER

Hon. Norman Rogers, the new minister of national defence, recently minister of labor, spoke to a Pickering College audience last winter and many Newmarket citizens had the opportunity of modest, friendly, approachable. A story is told of him now that the first day he entered his new office as minister of defence an armed soldier demanded who he was and when he did not get a very audible reply took the minister roughly by the shoulder. Unruffled, Mr. Rogers made his explanation and went on. Mr. Rogers served in the last war, starting with the Nova Scotia highlanders as a private and ending as a lieutenant. He served as private secretary to Mr. King, when Mr. King was minister of labor, long, long ago. He was a Rhodes scholar and before he entered politics in 1935 he had been a professor at Queen's University.

May Disappoint Some Folks

It is said that Mr. Rogers is an able man, and that in a quiet way he made a real attack on the unemployment problem. He is very close to Mr. King and his policies will reflect Mr. King's desires. If Mr. King wishes Canada's effort to be chiefly in the production of foodstuffs and materials, Mr. Rogers will be the one most criticized by those who are anxious to see Canadians fighting in France. Somehow, we can't picture either Mr. King or Mr. Rogers pushing their fellow Canadians into the front lines, unless Canada's European allies call urgently for fighting forces. At the present time, France and Britain have ready for active service great reserves of trained men, but they have only small reserves in food and war equipment.

IT'S NOT LIKELY

A number of municipalities have announced that electric light bills will be increased by eight per cent war tax, when presented to the consumers, but Bracebridge power, light and water commission has announced that it will pay this eight per cent itself, at least until the end of this year. The tax became effective from Sept. 12. Newmarket's water and light committee, looking for new sources of revenue, is hardly likely to play Santa Claus in similar fashion.

WE APPRECIATE YOUR HELP

Perhaps there are times when the town weekly does not live up to our expectations. Perhaps there are times when we think that the community weekly might do a much better job. Undoubtedly town weeklies are not what they might be, if their resources were inexhaustible, their staffs were tireless, and their readers were countless, and their advertisers were never discouraged. But weeklies have unnecessary difficulties.

How You Can Help

For instance, there are few people who bear in mind that a weekly newspaper needs copy on Fridays and Saturdays as well as on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Press secretaries and correspondents, who often might have their material in a week ahead of time, will send it in on Wednesday or even Thursday and expect to see it published. They do not realize that they are forcing the newspaper staff to work at night, and are creating a rush which inevitably leads to mistakes.

Off-peak Typesetting

A weekly newspaper has a peak-load just as Newmarket's hydro-electric system has a peak-load. That peak falls on Wednesday and Thursday, when the weekly's staff has far too much to do. People who do not think of sending in their item of news or their advertising until Wednesday and Thursday are contributing to that peak, and are making economical production of their weekly newspaper more difficult.

Printed Daily, Published Weekly

Our slogan is a "daily newspaper published weekly." We set type for our newspaper every day, but we print our newspaper once a week. The Era is your newspaper and you can help to make it better by your co-operation in sending in your copy early.

A WESTERN VIEWPOINT

Under the heading "Democracy in Commons," the Financial Post quotes the Vancouver Sun as follows: "It was a stirring thing to see that Mr. Woodsworth was still free in our parliament to say what he thought, to oppose the majority, to hold a view against the whole nation if he wished to. That is the democratic way for which we are fighting the war, without which the war would not be worth fighting. If ever the time comes when a man like Mr. Woodsworth cannot speak as he chooses, as his conscience directs, our democracy will be lost, the war will be lost, whatever the military verdict."

NOT JUST EXECUTIVE ABILITY NEEDED

The Financial Post calls upon Prime Minister King to eliminate "politics, patronage and unsound business practices from all phases of government." If possible, that would be just as desirable during peace as during war. We doubt if it is possible within the parliamentary framework. As a specific plank in its platform, the Post asks for "strengthening cabinet leadership by drawing upon Canada's best executive brain-power irrespective of political considerations." Is it as simple as that? Canada's ablest executives may lack the ability to explain their actions, to accept criticism gracefully, and to win support for what they are doing. Statesmen must be more than good business men, for they must either carry out the wishes of the people or gain public approval for their own policies. It is simpler to rule as a dictator than as a democrat, but in this country there is a scarcity of people ready to be dictated to.

PREMATURE PROHIBITION

It has been said that the difference between a metropolitan daily and a town weekly is that the former covers its field extensively and the latter covers its field intensively. Another difference is that the weekly hears about its mistakes, even admits them. The Dundalk Herald says:

"While The Herald made the error last week of coming out boasting the previous week's headline, we didn't get as much kidding, we feel safe in saying, as Editor Frank Irwin of the Dundalk Chronicle would for a tactical blunder made by that wide-awake journal in its last issue. In an item telling about two infantile paralysis cases being discovered at Arkwright, the Chronicle meant to say 'the school had been closed.' Instead the item read 'the alcohol had been closed.' We are all well aware that alcohol and spirits of all kinds have gone up in price as a result of government war tax but hadn't heard of them being closed off. We leave it to Editor Irwin to make a reasonable excuse for the error."

The Common Round

"UNTO THE HILLS"

By Isabel Inglis Colville

I wonder if it's because we have to lift our eyes—to look up—to the hills, that we associate them with protection?

The other day, driving to Aurora, we topped a little rise and there, below us, lay Aurora and behind the town, seeming quite close, like the backdrop in a theatre, rose the hills of King.

They made one think of the Bible saying, "Like as the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so is the Lord round about them that fear him."

So many wonderful things have happened on mountains. Moses appeared on Mount Sinai with the tables of the law; it was from a mountain he viewed the promised land, and on a mountain he met the angel of death.

Satan took Christ to the top of a high mountain and showed him the kingdoms of the earth, tempting him, to show his power.

The Sermon on the Mount was preached from a little hill, and one can imagine the earnest, amazed faces of those who listened to a doctrine so opposed to the teaching of the Pharisees and of all the religions with which the Hebrews came in contact.

And the loveliest, the saddest and most revolutionary life ever lived on earth ended its earthly portion on "a green hill, outside a city wall."

But like most powers in nature, some mountains can be as cruel as others are kind.

Some of them lie dormant for years like sleeping giants, and then suddenly, as in a fairy tale, the giant awakes, grows, and shakes himself, and casts molten lava down his sides, and then follow tragedies like those which buried Pompeii and which, from time to time, even yet bring towns and villages to horrible destruction.

But, in spite of what we know about mountains, their beauty, their value as a source of springs and minerals, or their cruel destructiveness, yet this knowledge doesn't satisfy some people. They must climb, they must try to unveil the mystery that caps these cloud-shadowed, snow-capped peaks.

And so they climb; sometimes they win through, and sometimes, like the late King Albert of the Belgians, they, like Moses, meet death on the mountain.

And yet hills are not all tragic or comforting or hard to climb or just merely lovely.

Some are sort of—well—just homely—they do things to you—give you pleasure—or the other thing.

A good many years ago I was visiting in Merceville. My host suggested we go for a drive—this, of course, was before the day of automobiles, but he had a team of handsome grey horses of which he was very proud.

Now, my host was a very fine man, but I didn't know what kind of a driver he was, and I never was comfortable unless I knew the driver was competent—and then I wasn't comfortable either.

However, we started off. It was a cold day, with that briskness that makes well-fed and not sufficiently exercised horses feel particularly good.

The pace at first was very nice, and I could even spare one eye from the horses to look at other things, but gradually it seeped into my consciousness that we were increasing our speed.

I noticed a certain grim look on my host's face, and that he took another reef or something on his reins, and presently his wife said, "Bill, I don't like to drive so fast, and don't you see that Isabel's quite pale?"

As I was sitting behind him I wondered how he was supposed to note any change, if any, in my complexion, but looking at his wife I didn't need a mirror, nor did he.

"You're a sort of pale green yourself," said he between clenched teeth, as he sort of sawed on the lines.

"Well, anyway, here's Mireden hill, and that will stop them—I hope."

On went the swaying survey; past a buggy that discreetly retired to the ditch as we approached and so—up the hill.

"I don't think they're slowing up much," said Bill's wife accusingly.

"Just wait," replied her better half, but we didn't need to, for just as we neared the crest, there was a sudden flashing round of grey bodies and in a trice we were going down hill faster than we came up.

I covered my eyes and waited for the crash, which never came, however, for we just tore along toward the village.

Suddenly, Bill began to laugh and as we glared at him he said, "This is a joke, we're going to a fire."

"This is no time for fooling," cried his wife indignantly.

"I'm not fooling. You can see the blaze and didn't you hear the going just as the horses turned?"

"But why are we going to the fire," I begged, having recovered my voice.

"Because I bought these horses when they had to get a heavier team," said my host, "and I have no say in the matter; if I'm out with them I go to the fire, willingly."

Just then we tore into the town, past astonished pedestrians and other vehicles hugging the sidewalks for safety.

Then, turning a corner on two wheels, we drew up beside the fire engine and came to a halt.

"I think we'll go home," said Jane, and we climbed out leaving the greys standing like lambs in what they considered to be their proper place, and Bill carrying out furniture to the detriment of his good suit.

And I remember my first trip from Toronto to Newmarket on the old metropolitan.

We had come from a country where hills were sort of tamed. You didn't see them rise up ahead of you like obelisks.

I happened to glance out and there was a hill unrolling exactly like those chocolate caramels with two strips of cream through them, and it went right straight up—no slant.

I held my breath and looked round—no one seemed perturbed, but I never got used to it.

Still a country devoid of hills would be hard to live in—we like to lift our eyes and see the everlasting hills—I think we drink in something of their rugged strength and serenity.

We can understand the nostalgia of the one who wrote, "My prairie home is beautiful—but—the hills of home," and another who wrote, "I am dreaming of the homeland, and the light upon the hills."

Perhaps, more than all, it's the STEADFASTNESS of the hills which is their attraction. The ocean is never still, nor can its moods be depended upon; cities come and go, and whole civilizations disappear, but still stand the everlasting hills!

YOUNG CHIPS AND HIS SON ARE NEARLY BETRAYED

"Who are those little slaty grey birds hopping about on the grass over in that garden?" Very Young Chips asked his father, Young Chips, the Chickadee, one day. "They are friendly little birds, and when they fly you can see wide, white bands on the edges of their tails."

"They're Slate-colored Juncos," Young Chips informed him. "The Chickadees are always very friendly with them."

"Why haven't I seen them before then?" inquired Very Young Chips.

"They nested farther north," explained the older bird, "but now they are working their way southward. Some of them will stay here for quite a long time yet, though. They aren't afraid of cold weather like some of our friends are. As long as they can get plenty of weed seeds to eat they'll be happy."

"How on earth will we Chickadees be able to stand the cold weather?" asked Very Young Chips anxiously.

"My dear boy, you shock me!" said his father. "The cold weather is delightful—and most invigorating—look out there's a Hawk! Hustle into these trees and keep still!"

"What kind is it?" whispered Very Young Chips breathlessly when the Chickadees had settled down in the shelter of some trees.

"Sh-sh," warned the other bird. "It's a Cooper's Hawk—just about our worst enemy. You can tell it by its long rounded tail and short, rounded wings and by its size. It's the middle one of the Accipiter Hawks—that is, the short-winged Hawks. The Sharp-shinned is smaller, and the Goshawk much larger."

The coloring of the Sharp-shinned and the Cooper's is much alike—the adults are blue grey on the back and barred brown and white below and the young ones are striped dark brown and white."

"S-s-say, Pop!" stammered Very Young Chips. "It's coming much nearer. Look! Do you think we're done for this time?"

"No, certainly not," replied his father firmly. "I'm sure he didn't see us before we reached the trees and he's still flying quite high. Watch his quick even strokes. And every little while he takes a little sail in the wind."

European upheaval, Ford repeated his offer to "find a use for everything you can produce from the soil," and added: "Some day I'm going to make an automobile out of wheat."

Rumania, pressing her own military preparations and surrounded by armed neighbors, reiterated this week her desire to maintain "strict neutrality."

The federal council of Switzerland granted permission to Ignace Moscicki, resigned president of Poland, and his wife to live in Switzerland.

"I'm shivering, I'm so nervous," complained the young Chickadee. "Can't we make a dash for it?"

"Where to, silly?" scoffed Young Chips. "Then we would be in danger. Oh heavens, here comes another bird to this tree—I hope he hasn't led the Hawk right to us."

A Songsparrow alighted with a flutter right near the others.

"For goodness sake!" Young Chips said to the newcomer indignantly. "Did you have to come right to our tree, of all places? You'll lead that miserable Hawk right to us!"

"I couldn't help it," answered the Songsparrow. "I didn't even see the Hawk until a second ago and I couldn't hunt around for a place farther away. Besides, I didn't know you were here."

"Wh-wh-what'll we do now?" gasped Very Young Chips. "H-hadn't we better move away?"

"No, not at all," replied Young Chips. "We'll stay right here and hope for the best. But I must say," he added severely, "that I'm very much surprised at our Sparrow friend here for being so careless himself and thus endangering the lives of others."

"I think that Hawk is looking for a chicken in the farmyard over there," the Songsparrow managed to blurt out. "He's going farther away now, isn't he?"

"Yes, he is," admitted Young Chips, "but it certainly isn't your fault."

"He really has gone a long way off now," announced the other Chickadee. "I've never been so scared in all my born days."

"I'll do you good," Young Chips told him crisply. "A hundred warnings about being on the alert for Hawks won't make you remember like one real good scare will. And let this Songsparrow's scatteredbrain exhibition be a lesson to you, too."

"Don't you think you were a little hard on that poor Songsparrow, Pop?" asked Very Young Chips as he and his father finally flew away from the trees. "He was only a young fellow like me."

"It only needs one mistake of that kind to end a bird's life," Young Chips answered. "And that might have been the time. It might have been you that was caught—think of that possibility!"

"Were you really worried about me?" asked Very Young Chips. "You acted very brave and calm, I thought."

"On Sunday, Sept. 17, at 1.45 a.m., as I was making my rounds, I noticed a car in the hedge on the south side of Eagle St. that had jumped a six-inch curb," testified Constable Jas. Stoss, Newmarket. "The car slid sideways a distance of 92 feet across the road, leaving a skid-mark and went through the hedge, damaging eight feet of it. The pavement was wet at the time of the accident. Raymond told me he was the driver of the car and there were several others around the car with him. The car is owned by Dave Hartford. There was no indication whatever of any liquor. Raymond told me that the pavement was wet and that the car went out of control. Raymond was going west on Eagle St. and the accident occurred 100 feet from the curve."

"After I went around the curve the car skidded and the wheels halted, and I couldn't straighten out the car, so it went up over the curb and into the hedge," stated Raymond.

"If another car had been coming from the west you would have hit it, wouldn't you?" asked Mr. Matthews.

"Possibly," answered Raymond. "What if any people had been coming along?" "They wouldn't be walking on the road."

"I am satisfied that you were driving too fast and that you failed to keep proper control of your car," stated Magistrate Woodliffe in imposing the penalty.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. John Maines and family wish to express their sincere thanks and deep appreciation to the many relatives, friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes extended during the loss of a dear husband and father.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to join with the dear wife and children of our departed brother, John Maines, to thank his great number of friends and acquaintances, who showed such deep sympathy, and to those who offered and did such kind services during this sad bereavement. Brother and sister, Will and Mary.

In Memoriam

Brown—In fond memory of Joseph Watson Brown, beloved husband of Myrtle Senn, who passed away two years ago, Oct. 5, 1937.

Loving and kind in all his ways, Upright and just, to the end of his days;

Sincere and true, in his heart and mind, Beautiful memories he left behind, His wife.

McKrell—In loving memory of a dear husband, Fred McKrell, Sharon, who passed away Oct. 9, 1936.

When evening shades are falling, And we sit in quiet alone, To our hearts there comes a longing— If he only could come home.

Friends may think we have forgotten— When at times they see us smile, But they little know the heartache Our smiles hide all the while.

Always remembered by his loving wife and family.

Terry—In loving memory of a dearly beloved husband and father, Harvey Richard Terry, who departed this life one year ago, Oct. 4, 1938.

We watched him suffer day by day, It caused us bitter grief To see him slowly pine away, And could not give relief.

His weary hours and days of pain, His troubled nights are passed; In our aching hearts we know He has found sweet rest at last.

'Tis sweet to know we will meet again Where parting is no more; And my dear husband I loved so well.

In heaven, dear Dad we'll find you, When God's great will is done; We'll stand once more beside you, When He calls for us to come.

Lovingly remembered by wife, Cora, and son, Russell.

Wright—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. John A. Wright, who passed away May 30, 1937, and dear father, who was called to rest Oct. 4, 1938.

What would we give their hands to clasp, Their patient face to see, To hear their voice, to see their smile, As in the days that used to be, But some sweet day we'll meet again Beyond the toll and strife, And clasp each other's hand once more In Heaven that happy life, Sadly missed by family.

The report at the time of going to press has not yet reached the hands of council.

"I was most surprised when I read the statements in the press and was called by them for a statement," said Mayor J. M. Walton. "It was the first word I received of the matter. For weeks past I have been pressing for a report, but he has delayed issuing it and now this is the treatment we get. The charges made against the municipality have not been proved to my knowledge. I called Mr. Polson three times today (Tuesday) but got no reply."

"It is most unusual and most embarrassing," said Reeve J. A. Knowles. "I have been asked for a statement and I can't give one because I haven't seen the report. I feel Yonge St. traffic is not our problem. It is a provincial highway. Let the province pay the expense of policing it."

"Let me point out that there are 22,000 cars a day on our streets," the mayor interjected. "Chief Dunham has more work to do than any policeman in Ontario. He works longer hours too, and we pay nearly $2,000 a

CYCLING CLUB WILL HOLD HOLIDAY RACE

Thanksgiving Day will be celebrated by the Aurora cycling club by way of a special 10-mile road race. The race commences at 2:30 p.m. on Oct. 9 and the starting gun will be fired at the corner of Wellington and Victoria Sts.

From there the riders proceed to the third concession of Whitelaw and return, the course to be covered twice. A wide variety of prizes is being awarded and the race is open to anyone in North York, entries to be made to John Offord or Bob Benville.

"year for safety on our streets," "Yes and the province takes most of the revenue," commented the reeve. "They would be better employed trying to cut down court costs."

"Let me say again we have not been served with the report, yet they give the report to those who are responsible for these erroneous reports being circulated in the first place," said the mayor. "It is unfair," said the reeve. "It's not in accord with the principles of British justice," Dr. E. J. Henderson said.

"Let us remember that this is a financial organization back of everything," said Councillor John Stuart. "They get yearly dues from their members and are trying to show them they are doing something for the money. There was supposed to be a speed trap at New Toronto, then Barrie, then here, I don't know what place they'll choose next."

"When the commissioner was here I asked him regarding our signs. 'Let us know your wishes,' I said," said Mr. Walton. Page 8, Col. 4

Baled Out Life-Boat With Shoes, Injured

MOTHER OF AURORA
WOMAN AMONG ATH-LETIC PASSENGERS

COMES HOME SOON

Mrs. John Bond, 11 Larmont St., has at last received definite word concerning her mother, Mrs. Edward Townley, 848 Bathurst St., Toronto, who was a passenger aboard the ill-fated liner Athenia, which was sunk by a German U-boat four weeks ago.

Robert Phinn, a cousin of Mrs. Townley, has just returned from England on his way to the international settlement at Hong Kong where he is stationed on police duty, and reading of his relative's misfortune while in the motherland hastened to her bedside. Two letters have also been received from Mrs. Townley.

On June 23, in anticipation of rejoining her family, whom she had not seen in 23 years, she left Canada and, arriving in England, spent the next six weeks at Lancaster in the Cumberland district. In September she wrote her family that war was imminent and she planned to sail on the Athenia. Next word was received of her in a newspaper dispatch which reported her as being rescued by the freighter, Knute Nelson.

"Mother is now back with her relatives but unable to return home for some weeks," Mrs. Bond told The Era. "She was on deck when the torpedo struck, and was thrown heavily when the impact occurred. She next remembers being in an open row-boat and being forced to use her shoes to bail out the water, which was up to her waist. They were 12 hours in the open boat and when rescued she was so exhausted and suffering from injuries that she was pulled on board the freighter with ropes."

Mrs. Townley was later removed for treatment to a hospital in Glasgow, where it was found she had received a dislocated shoulder and severe rib injuries. Her baggage was entirely lost, including all her clothing.

"Mother is 53 years of age and was in perfect health," said Mrs. Bond. "Despite her harrowing experience her letters are most cheerful and, from all reports available, with rest and good care she will soon be herself again. She will sail to Canada as soon as possible."

Relatives kept news of the disaster from Mrs. Bond until it was reported that her mother was safe, carefully censoring all newspapers and tuning down all news dispatches on the radio.

DOWN THE CENTRE

The Babe Visits Town

Aurora's lone representative in professional hockey, Graham "Babe" Teasdale, is in town on a holiday prior to leaving to join the Kansas City Blues in the American Association pro loop.

The big boy is fully recovered from a serious leg injury sustained last year and looks to be in the pink of condition. He should be a big help to his new coach, "Butch" Keeling, who has severed his playing days with the New York Rangers to go west.

Although only 28, Teasdale has been in the monied ranks for ten years, all spent in minor pro ranks. In 1932 the Boston Bruins were prepared to give him his big break but Mickey Roach, then coach of Syracuse, who were hot in the play-off spot, refused to let him go.

The Bruins bought a big N.H.L. defence star instead and while several clubs have been interested in him since, he has been dogged by the rap opportunity once gave and no one answered.

It was in 1927 he broke into hockey with the local junior team, which was eliminated by Newmarket. Bud Gifford, Bruce Browning, Ken. Rose, Percy Preston, Gar. Preston, Keith Davis and Bruce Foote were his team-mates. All with the exception of Ken. Rose have long since hung up their skates. 1928 saw him a member of the Newmarket team that won the S.P.A. but were eliminated by Marlborough in the O.H.A. finals. Herb. Cain, Bill Thomas and "Dodger" Collins were team-mates who later turned professional.

Next season saw him with Eddie Livingston's Victorias. They were eliminated by West Toronto, who had Collings and Thomas on their line-up, and following that he joined Teddy Oke's ill-fated Toronto Millionaires, coached by Hughie Lehman.

Oke sold his club to the new Syracuse entry in 1930 and for the next two years he played with the Stars. In 1932 he was purchased by Buffalo Bisons for $1,800 and played Al. Murray, now starring with New York Americans. He remained in Buffalo until the Bisons folded up, when their arena caved in four years later, and then joined the Cleveland Indians.

From Cleveland he went to Kansas City in 1937, where he has played under Helge Bostrom, the old Blackhawk and Winnipeg Falcons star.

During all these years he has never played on a championship team. Practically every year he has played in the various league play-offs, but he and his team-mates just couldn't hit pay dirt. Throughout these long years of service he has more or less been the Red Horner of the minors, so far as penalties were concerned, and with the same kind of hard luck too.

"They always blame a big fellow," he says.

In 1932 he was top-scoring defence-man in the international circuit with 27 points. This was also good enough to rank as tenth best scorer in the league.

We offered this same survey to the government last year, anticipating trouble in Europe. Unfortunately, they did not see fit to accept our offer at that time. BABY GIRL STRICKEN SUDDENLY, NEARLY 3
Sympathy of the entire community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Hill, Larmont St., who on Saturday suffered the loss of their baby daughter Barbara as a result of a sudden illness.

The funeral, held Monday, was largely attended and the funeral service was conducted by the Rev. H. W. Muxworthy of Newmarket. Four aunts of the deceased, Alma and Edna Hill, Aurora, and Una Martin and Eva Barber, Toronto, acted as pallbearers.

ACCEPTING REEVE'S RESIGNATION PUT OFF
Reeve J. A. Knowles tendered his written resignation, stating the pleasure he had found in his long years of service to the municipality and thanking the electors for their support and his colleagues for their co-operation, at a town council meeting Tuesday evening. He was not, however, resident in Aurora now, he said. On motion of Messrs. Sparks and Henderson, council, without any comment, decided to leave this until their next meeting.

Feeling that the agreement with the dehydrating company was cancelled by the company failing to carry out their agreements, council decided to contact company officials and reach a new agreement. "We should act fast," commented Councillor Stuart. "They may rent part of the plant they are not using to someone else."

DOCTORS OFFER WAR SERVICES

Dr. C. J. Devins was honored by his fellow medical practitioners of Ontario, Peel, Simcoe and York counties last Friday when he was chosen councillor of District No. 5 of the Ontario Medical Association at the annual district meeting held at Barrie.

He will serve on the provincial council for a three-year term, which will commence next June. Ontario is divided into 11 districts, and, with the exception of Toronto, District No. 5 is the largest in population.

Over 200 medicos and their wives were present. The ladies were taken on a trip through the reforestation experimental farm at Midhurst, while the business session was held in the afternoon and in the evening a dinner was held in the Queen's hotel.

This is the first occasion such an honor has been bestowed on an Aurora doctor. His immediate predecessor in office was Dr. T. J. Simpson of Collingwood and it is not likely York county will be so honored again for some years.

"The medical association is expending every effort to assist the federal government at the present time," said Dr. Devins in conversation with The Era. "A complete survey is being made of what services each and every doctor is prepared to render his country over the next three or four years, either by way of active service, hospital service, or taking on additional territory to assist those who enlist."

"These surveys will be given to the commanding officers of each military district and we will be prepared to carry out our orders. We offered this same survey to the government last year, anticipating trouble in Europe. Unfortunately, they did not see fit to accept our offer at that time. We have been behind in our preparations for war but things are now moving swiftly, and the medical profession as in the last war will give its all in a drive for victory."

WILCOX AND GRIMES WIN SENIOR TITLES AT FIELD DAY
Paced by the flying spikes of Bill Jelley, the purple and gold track and field performers from Newmarket high school regained possession of the A. J. H. Eckhardt trophy for 1939 in the annual North York inter-school meet held at Richmond Hill yesterday.

Newmarket's team amassed a total of 124 1/2 points to finish well out in front of Richmond Hill with 92 1/2 points. Aurora, last year's titleholders, with 73 points, and the last-place team from Markham with 63 points.

Jelley counted 44 points, slightly more than one-third of his team's total, and in winning the junior title smashed existing records in the pole vault, running broad jump, and hop, step and jump. He scored seven firsts and three seconds.

In the senior boys' class the title went to Reg. Perkin of Markham with Follitt of Aurora close behind. Follitt scored more firsts than the Markham boy but the latter was more versatile.

Dudley Wilcox, the Aurora boys' local winner, broke the record in the standing broad jump. Aurora led the way in team points in this section with 32 points. This class was the only one where the new champions were really out-classed.

Elizabeth Wilcox of Aurora, a sister of Dudley, not to be outdone by her brother, also set a new record in the senior girls' running broad jump. Newmarket and Richmond Hill senior girls tied in points.

Elizabeth Wilcox and Doris Clarke, Richmond Hill, tied for the senior girls' championship.

The junior girls class was dominated by Richmond Hill with both the champion and runner-up coming from that school. The whole Hill team were away out in front in this section.

R. W. Steele of the Ontario Athletic Commission was official starter while teachers from the various schools acted as officials. The perfect weather and the capable handling of the arrangements by the Richmond Hill school staff contributed greatly to the success of the day. In all, six records were smashed.

Detailed results will be found on Page 4.

Last Thursday provided perfect weather for the high school field day postponed from the previous day. The grass track was heavy but excellent times under the conditions were made in the track events.

Howard Follitt scintillated with a record-breaking 23-second performance in the senior 220, and a first-time record in the newly-added half-mile event.

With the exception of the senior boys' standing broad jump, and the first time senior girls' 75-yard dash, none of the newly-crowned champs set any records in either the boys' or girls' senior and junior classes. In the midget classes Owen Richards, boys' titleholder, set records in both the

Auditor's Bill, $625, Seems High To Mayor, May Cut It

PARTLY FOR LAST YEAR,
REPLIES DEPUTY-REEVE
FARR

The town auditor has submitted a special bill for bookkeeping services in addition to his regular salary, making, in all, a total of $625, to be paid him this year.

Deputy-Reeve L. K. Farr stated at a town council meeting Tuesday evening that part of this work really should have been paid for last year, as part of the work was done then. "He's done a real job. The bill would have been less if we could have got proper co-operation from town employees."

"It seems high to me for a place this size," commented the mayor.

"Not when you consider the work done," said Mr. Farr. "He put in nearly 20 days work largely on the waterworks accounts," said Mr. Linton.

"Yes, and his assistant spent 80 hours here," added Councillor Wilcox.

"Leave it over until we meet Mr. Hilborn," said Mr. Farr. "I think we can get it cut down." Council agreed to this.

Stewart Patrick, who last year rebuilt premises owned by the George Patrick estate, on Temperance St., appeared before council and asked when the sewer pipe on his property would be covered.

"You promised to do this before and it's still a mess," he complained.

"I don't think we made any definite promise," commented the mayor. "We promised fill as we had it. We didn't say we would supply it specially."

"Do you say you have no obligation?" queried Mr. Patrick. "I don't think so," the mayor replied. "We have an easement, you know."

"Yes and it's no good," said Patrick. "Mother signed it but she was not the registered owner."

"That is a curious oversight by someone," said the mayor.

"Well, if I'm not going to be aided I'll have to take some other action," replied Patrick.

"We have spent all our money for such matters this year," the mayor stated. "We can't spend more. Leave it to our committee. We'll try to adjust matters."

"I think we should," said Dr. Henderson.

"I agree," said Mr. Farr. Council then set the matter over.

Registration Of Aliens Will Dispel Rumors - Chief

ALL GERMAN ALIENS WILL BE FINGERPRINTED AND GIVEN CARD

On instructions from the commissioner of the R.C.M.P., Chief Constable Fisher Dunham will commence an immediate round-up of all aliens of enemy nationality in this district.

Each Wednesday afternoon and evening the chief will hold a registration bureau at the town hall, to which all such persons must voluntarily attend. Stiff penalties are to be applied to those who do not come forward of their own volition.

After a thorough investigation, if the local officer is satisfied the person applying is not in the "dangerous class," and safe to be kept at large, fingerprints will be taken, and an undertaking will be entered into whereby the alien agrees to take no steps contrary to law or likely to aid the enemy.

It is provided that each person signing the undertaking will be given a registration card to be carried on his person continually. Thereafter a monthly check will be made on his whereabouts, in a manner similar to the present parole system.

While the chief does not believe there are many enemy nationals in the district he told The Era: "We will now have some control over person who to date have broken no law but are acting in a suspicious manner. I have one or two persons in mind to whom we have things to fear but proper precautions are in force."

With the exception of one private industry, there are no armed guards on duty anywhere in Aurora, and local police have had their duties increased, as an exacting round of inspection is made continually throughout the night at all factories and public utilities.

"Particular watch is being kept at the source of our water supply," said the chief. "It will be a very unwise person, indeed, who will venture into these areas after dark."

Provincial Officer Alex. Ferguson will assist in the taking of fingerprints. It is believed that many crimes now in the unsolved category will be cleaned up once these lists have been checked throughout Canada.

"As each enemy national must carry fingerprint identification on his registration card, there can be no question of mistaken identity or a possible transfer of cards to fool police," said the chief. "The registration will also put an end to the vague rumors floating about thought by some to be enemy aliens in this district."

"Several persons about whom rumors are being spread are British subjects and beyond suspicion, but they are subjected to unfair gossip by persons who do not check up on their information. This is most unfortunate but there is nothing we can do about it officially."

"Although no one knows, it is hoped it will be in the near future," he said. Games followed and then lunch. It was announced that the Y. P. U. had picked a 3-act play entitled, "Don't Darken My Door," which would be presented the second week of November at Teston fowl supper. SCHOMBERG HOUSEHOLD SHOWER GIVEN AT TOWN HALL

Mr. and Mrs. J. McGowan and Miss Helen McGowan, Barrie, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McGowan. E. Quantz was suddenly stricken with a heart attack while working on Saturday and was removed to St. Michael's hospital at once. He is improving slightly. St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican church held its regular annual harvest Thanksgiving services on Sunday. There was a splendid congregation in the morning and not so large in the evening. The rector, Rev. F. V. Abbott, spoke in the morning and Rev. G. O. Lightbourn of Aurora at night. The choir sang appropriate anthems and all enjoyed the familiar harvest hymns. Dr. and Mrs. M. K. Dillane were in the city on Monday. The softball team scored yet another victory when they defeated Fisherville in that village on Monday with a score of 20-14.

EVERSLEY MARGUERITE EZARD IS BRIDE OF W. GELLATLY

A very delightful event was the marriage on Tuesday, at Niagara Falls, of Miss Marguerite Ezard and Walter Gellatly. Miss Ezard was the guest of her aunt there.

The happy couple returned to King in time for a wedding supper on Wednesday evening, given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ezard. After the banquet a charivari party composed of the church ladies serenaded the couple. Friends with every happiness to this worthy couple. Eversley Young People held a weiner roast at the home of Mrs. Charles Neill on Monday night last. Rain fell in torrents around meeting time, but a good time was spent and the weiners disappeared. Hot dogs do not bark! Strange, isn't it?

Eversley W. M. S. held its September meeting on Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. John Wade's. There was a fair attendance. Miss Hilda Jones read the scripture in the absence of Miss Tinline, who has been having trouble with her eyes. Mrs. Howard Neill, Miss Annie Ferguson and Mrs. A. B. Wells contributed readings, and Mrs. Lyle Wells read the "Glad Tidings" prayer. Mrs. Philip Wade, "Aunt Hannah," of Maple, and Mrs. D. McDonald, president of Aurora W. M. S., were guests. Arrangements are being made for a family gathering of all the missionary societies in the King Presbyterian charge. Mrs. Gellatly, Mrs. Rolling, Miss Cummings and Miss Irons from King attended the meeting of York Pioneers at Brunswick Hall in Kettleby, the home of J. M. Walton, on Saturday afternoon.

It was a delightful occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Walton were host and hostess to the company and gave a dinner to those present. Mrs. Gellatly, as historical research secretary of Snowball Women's Institute, has made a large contribution to the pioneer history of this section. Miss Jessie Gellatly and Miss Annie Ferguson attended the Mission Band rally held in Aurora Presbyterian church on Saturday afternoon, with Mrs. A. McClure, sectional vice-president from King, present. The Sunday-school rally service was held in Eversley church in connection with the morning service, on Sunday morning. The choir corner was filled with the children of the Sunday-school, down to the smallest girl, Alma Cadden. This children's choir contributed two children's hymns, singing very sweetly. This was much appreciated. Mr. Rolling Sunday-school superintendent, conducted the service, while Rev. Mr. Burch preached the children's sermon and later the regular service. There was a fair sized congregation present. The church was decorated with autumn blooms, salvaged on Saturday before the frost got them.

A Job Well Done
"The film magazine wanted one of his stars to accept a reduction in salary. So he said to his junior partner: 'You tackle him. Paul. You're better educated than what I am. You can give him a better line of talk than me.' Paul went off on his disagreeable job. When he came back, the magazine asked him indignantly: 'Well, how about it?' 'He hesitated,' said Paul. 'Did he? The dirty dog!'

BARGE COMES OUT OF WATER, CLIMBS HILL

continue from where I left off in my last letter. At Sioux Lookout, it was, that the law and I had a brief skirmish. The freight yards there are ably patrolled by two worthy gentlemen in uniform who take not kindly to transients and, since I could only be classified in that category, their attention was inevitably fastened on yours truly. The incident occurred in the wee small hours of the morning while I was searching for an empty box-car. Rounding a car I came face to face with a uniformed man, and as the long arm of the law reached out to collar me, I decided that discretion was the better part of valor and back-tracked like a startled rabbit. Andrew, he didn't even see me leave. It was a clear case of "Poudre aux Yeux."

An hour later a passenger train pulled into the station and so I travelled the last 15 miles to Hudson in state. Arriving there and having fortified myself with steaming Java, I began to look for a place to spend the night. Finally I found one but then I couldn't rouse anyone to show me to a room so I just flopped down on a couch in the hallway, let my feet hang over the end and in no time at all I was in the arms of Morpheus. (I hope you don't have to look that one up.)

Up, betimes, as somebody said, and then I was saying good-morning to my surprised hostess over the breakfast table. Then to Starrot Airways where I booked passage on the meat scow which was all ready to set out on the 175 mile trip to Red Lake. The quarters were not luxurious but they fed me well even if the cook despaired at times. For the greater part of the time I slept on the top deck while the remainder of the time I spent admiring the heavily forested shore-line.

Lac Seul is one of the most picturesque lakes I have ever seen and it has just 145 miles of beauty. Thousands of islands dot its waters but, strange to say, almost all of the trees are dead and spread their bare branches for miles along the shore. In my mind's eye I see them now—like a vast herd of reindeer and only the antlers showing above the water-level. Without a pilot the stranger could easily become hopelessly lost amid the maze of islands which all look the same. How the captain could recognize the landmarks I still can't understand. Although I might have come in by plane at very little extra expense I'm glad I didn't miss that boat-trip.

About 10.30 that night we came to Ear Falls, the end of Lac Seul. (Here at Ear Falls stands a power dam of 20,000 horsepower which supplies all the electricity for hundreds of miles around.) My trip was to be one surprise after another, I learned, when the captain told me this was as far as he intended going. Indeed he could go no further; but what was to happen to his only passenger, your humble scribe? Oh, that was simple. I was merely to take the next boat. Confound it, this was no time for kidding. I ask a civil question and I am referred to an unseen boat, the existence of which I seriously doubted. Then, wonder of wonders, the barge carrying the meat and fruit began to move, seemingly under its own power—and right towards shore! When it came to the shore, it didn't crack up like I expected but came out of the water and started up a hill. For a moment I thought I was having an hallucinatory attack but no, this was actually happening. So, grabbing my bag, I ran after the barge and was soon swinging aboard this land-going sea-vessel.

The explanation is quite simple. Perhaps you have already guessed, Andrew, that this was a portage. A steam-winch at the top of the hill (by means of a cable) hauled the barge which rested on a flat-car up the incline and let it gently down the other side. It was really a small railway. Then, on the other side of the hill was the English River, where a smaller boat picked up the barge and, incidentally, myself, and then we were on our way again.

Three times that night we duplicated this performance and morning found us in the Chequamegon River (pronounced east with a pinch of pepper). This river winds precariously for miles and sometimes was barely deep enough for the boat. After one more change of boats we came in sight of Red Lake, which is destined to become one of the greatest little mining towns in the Canadian north.

As soon as I landed at Red Lake I hired a taxi-boat which took me to Chequamegon where the first man I met was Bill Cochran, owner, president and original stoker of the mine which provides my bread and butter. He sent me to see the manager. The manager sent me to see the mine captain and then, before I realized it, I was on the pay-roll and the doctor was saying "You'll do." And that seems to be that, Andrew.

Yours respectfully,
Joe Dales.

COUNCIL DISAPPROVES OF HEPBURN STAND

A request from the Ontario Municipal Electric Association that the town support a request that the federal government meet the cost of guarding public utilities met with short shrift at a town council meeting Monday evening.

"We're looking after our own," said Mayor Dr. S. J. Boyd. "It doesn't interest us." "And Mitch Hepburn should look after his own," said Councillor D. O. Mungovan. "Why should we help the provincial government to embarrass the federal government?" said Dr. Boyd.

"We should throw it in the wastepaper basket," said Mr. Mungovan.

A communication regarding use of waste lands for agriculture, from Queen's Park, was in danger of being filed.

"We're not going to get anywhere if we throw these waste-time measures into the wastebasket," said Councillor Wm. Dixon. "They don't pass these for fun."

"We don't need to handle this tonight, because you are not of contentious business tonight," said Dr. Boyd. "We have a lot of contentious business tonight." The matter was put aside for the next council meeting.

VETERAN SAYS SOLDIERS OF ALL NATIONS IN 1918 SHOULD HAVE ENDED MUNITION MAKING

Tuxford, Sask. Sept. 27, 1939.

Editor, The Era: We have had a wonderful fall, and on the whole a good crop. There have only been two light rains—sprinkles—since harvest began on Aug. 12, a delay of a day on each occasion. Yesterday word came over the radio to ship no more wheat at present to the interior government elevators at Moose Jaw and Saskatoon. There were 600 cars of wheat in the yards at Broadview, Sask., the sidings are full, some elevators full and doors closed. The Allies should not go short if we can get the wheat or flour across. What say?

The western farmer has received to date—at least 75 per cent who have sold to the wheat board—no more than had there been no war. He may get something for the certificates. A year ago last summer, at Ottawa, when there was a controversy over the amount of assistance the west was receiving from the dominion government, the Hon. W. R. Motherwell pointed out—had the western farmers' wheat been sold at the average Liverpool price, instead of being compelled to deliver it to the wheat board, they would have been ahead 700 million dollars. This included interest. Look up Hansard for verification. So should this board turn out the same, the prospect of further payments are not, shall we say, convincing.

This morning I got up early with the intention of bagging some Prairie chickens and Hungarian partridge, but it's raining. You know there are a lot of American hunters come here (wish they would come in on the Big Shoot, eh?) and they shoot with dogs all day long, so one has to get up early to get any of the sports. May I say a word about the war.

Some 28 or 29 years ago a school-teacher by the name of Walden Lawr said one day, some people thought the sunrise was somewhere by Bogartown and the sunset by Glenville. He also said if there should ever be a war between England and Germany the U. S. A. would come in on the side of England because blood is thicker than water. I wonder if he realized he and some of his pupils would see two wars and how far some of them would get from that sunrise and sunset. Let's hope that blood is still thicker than water, for this war may tax the resources of our empire to the limit, also its man-power.

Our government saw fit for Canada to declare war. They will go down in history as being the government at the time of the first declaration of war by Canada as a nation. In 1911 the government thought reciprocity so important they went to the people for a mandate. When this government went so far, why not the whole way and put everything and everybody behind the wheel at the start? Go just as far as England.

There are two words beginning with the same letter "w" that cause the majority of common humanity untold grief, war and whiskey. So long as whiskey is made it will be drunk—and I suppose we do need a little occasionally for colds, etc.).

So long as armaments, etc., are made they will be used. Well, we old soldiers shipped up at the finish of the last war. We should have gotten together—Germans and all—we had the Yanks there too then. We should have made sure that in the future no submarine would carry a gun or torpedo, no airplane a bomb or a gun. Had the armament factories dismantled or turned to some other useful production, it would have black-listed war for good. It might have put some munition workers on the dole and forced some shareholders to other forms of skulduggery but what of that. Let's hope they make no mistake at the end of this war to secure peace forever.

Yours truly,

Les Bogart.

P. S.: I nearly forgot to congratulate Mr. Jos. Spilletto and the Redmen. He would not know what a kick I got out of those two trips to King City and Richmond Hill last summer.

BOY NOT BLAMED

FOR FATHER'S DEATH

Lawrence Gibbons, 73-year-old Gifford man, was the "main contributing factor" to the accident which resulted in his death, a coroner's jury found in the Newmarket town hall on Tuesday evening.

Gibbons died in York county hospital, Newmarket, on Sept. 24 following an accident on the Medonte-Oro town line, two miles east of Craighurst, on Sept. 14.

Coroner Dr. L. W. Dales of Newmarket presided. N. L. Mathews, K. C., crown attorney, conducted the examination of witnesses. The following were jurors: Alex. Eves, foreman, H. E. Gilroy, George Byers, Wm. Dunn and Ray Jelley.

Louis Gibbons, Gifford, testified that he had identified his father's body at York county hospital.

Dr. R. H. Judge, Bradford, said that he had attended the deceased at his home in Gifford and had sent him to the hospital. The deceased had told him that the accident occurred when he had tried to get into the front seat from the back seat while his son was driving. As a result the boy lost control of the car.

Dr. Judge said that he had performed an autopsy and found that the deceased had a fractured jaw and several broken ribs but that he had died from pneumonia resulting from the injuries.

Dr. Donald A. Forsyth, Hillsdale, said that he had been called to the scene of the accident and that he found Mr. Gibbons sitting by the roadside near the damaged car. He was able to walk and to talk, and that he drove him to the relative's home about two miles away from which he had just come. Later in the day he sent him home by ambulance.

Gerrard Gibbons, driver of the car, said that he was 15 at the time of the accident and that he had become 16 on Sept. 19.

"We were attending a funeral and we were on the way to the church," he said.

He had no driver's license but he had had considerable experience driving, he said. He expected one of his two brothers to drive, and for that reason his father had got into the back seat and he had got into the front seat. But his two brothers were to act as pallbearers and had gone ahead in another car.

"We were left behind, and so I drove," he said. "My father thought that I was a good driver."

His father attempted to get into the front seat from the back seat, after they had gone about two miles, he said. The car was going about 20 miles an hour on a gravel road.

"My father lost his balance and fell on my arm, and I lost control of the car," said the youth. "The next I remember I was in the ditch. My father was lying down, and I went for help."

He did not report the accident to the police, he said.

Provincial Constable Peters, Elmville, learned of the accident following Mr. Gibbons' death, he testified. He went then to the scene of the accident and found the ground gouged for 60 feet.

The accident occurred at the bottom of a hill, said the constable. The roof was torn off the car.

"It is quite evident that if the father had tried to get into the front seat at that point, and fell on the driver, there would be an accident," said Constable Peters.

"Then the youth and inexperience of the driver were not a contributing factor to the accident, in your opinion?" asked Mr. Mathews.

"This is the important point," "No," answered the constable.

Brilliant

A football player in a small college was extraordinarily dumb, but to the surprise of everyone he passed all of his work including a special examination in chemistry. The chemistry professor was asked about it, and he said, "I decided I would let him pass if he answered 80 per cent of the questions correctly."

"I asked him two questions. One he answered wrong, one right. Therefore I let him pass. The first was 'What color is blue vitriol?' He answered 'Pink.' That time he was wrong. The other was 'How do you make sulphuric acid?' He answered that he didn't know. That time he was right."

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Era:

"No sugar!" "I'm sorry!" This was the dictum I met in a leading chain store today after purchasing a basket of peaches for canning.

The manager was courteous but firm. The war must be won, so — no sugar.

Certainly! Fruit should be preserved. Most assuredly! Sugar is an essential household requirement. But — this is war time.

On reaching home I looked up some dominion government official reports and ascertained that in the last year for which statistics are available (1937), there was used in the manufacture of intoxicating beverages in Canada:—

10,532,378 pounds of sugar.
$9,100,999 pounds of molasses.
A total of 100,033,374 pounds.

In a mental muddle I tried to reason things out. Sugar in abundance for the making of booze, none for canning peaches.

Sugar aplenty for boozers. No sugar for housewives. Somehow it did not add up right.

I wondered if it would be thought foolish or presumptuous to suggest the rationing of sugar to the liquor manufacturers rather than to thrifty housewives, who, now that fruit is plentiful, want to put down some for the winter.

But it occurred to me that perhaps the dear, unselfish, patriotic, booze people might be annoyed if they were asked to use corn syrup and honey. Of course, to offend them would never do. They are so generous, particularly around election time. So, let the fruit rot, but keep on making booze.

The logic would seem to be that booze guzzling is a he-man, war-winning activity that should be encouraged, while peach-canning, or fruit-preserving, is an effeminate, peace-time proposition that does not really matter in a national emergency.

I tried to justify the discrimination by taking a longer view, say in six months from now, which would be of most value to the country, the sugar of the guzzled booze or of the preserved peaches?

Again, I was perplexed. Then the words of the precocious little imp, Puck, came to me explaining it all —

"Lord! What fools these mortals be."

TOWN REGAINS LOST
CUSTOMER FOR POWER

In spite of marked economies through installation of a Diesel motor, J. A. Perks, Huron St. miller, has been forced to revert to the use of electricity.

Mr. Perks found that his

Diesel installation was not heavy enough to carry the load, and due to the war he was unable to replace his engine, which was made in England, with a larger one.

As an alternative, the company from which he purchased his engine is replacing it with a 40-horsepower electric motor.

This means that Mr. Perks' electric power consumption will be increased over what it was before he turned to oil, but his bill will probably not be so heavy, as the town discovered, at the time he made the change, that it had been over-charging him for power.

Mr. Perks expects to make the change-over in about ten days time.

"Mr. Perks changed to a Diesel engine without consulting Mr. Rachar," said Councillor A. D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee, at the town council meeting Monday evening.

"Later he consulted Mr. Rachar and tried to get rid of his Diesel motor but he couldn't," said Mr. Evans. "Now he has found that the Diesel engine won't do the job and he comes back to electricity. The engine didn't live up to the guarantee."

"But in the meantime you made him a rebate and offered him a better rate," said Councillor Frank Bowser.

"We are always fair," said Mr. Evans.

"The point is we will be selling him more power than before," said Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale.

Era printers spare no pains to make every job attractive.

"She says here, she'll be home to-night!"

Is there anything more worrying than waiting? One voice inside you says: "Don't be silly, she's all right . . ." And another voice whispers: "Perhaps she's had an accident . . . oh dear, what shall I do?"

"I would have stayed up all night!"

But when you hear her voice on the telephone you know all is well — you thank heaven for Long Distance service — you realize how easy it is to keep in touch — and you like people who do.

"She didn't realize that I couldn't get away"

Sometimes you think older people are foolish to worry — but somehow you feel better when you've brought calm and peace to anxious minds — by Long Distance.

It costs so little* to save Worry for others by LONG DISTANCE!

MRS. WYATT BALDWIN DIES IN NEW YORK STATE WHILE ATTENDING WORLD'S FAIR

The death occurred suddenly at Lowville, New York state, on Wednesday morning of Rhea Lemon, wife of G. Wyatt Baldwin, of Yonge St. north.

Mrs. Baldwin had been in ill health for some months past but, feeling improved, had accompanied her husband on a holiday trip to the world's fair. News of her death came as a stunning blow to local townspeople.

Mrs. Baldwin was in her 62nd year and from one of Aurora's pioneer families. She leaves surviving her, beside her husband, three sisters, Miss Eva Lemon, Mosley St., Mrs. Lena Young, St. Mary's and Mrs. George Yale, Alexander, Indiana. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

POLSON'S ACTION

"He has not replied. Chief Dunham and I thought he was satisfied we were acting in a fair way. I have personally investigated several alleged complaints and they were unfounded in fact."

"They complain they don't know they're being clocked and are surprised when they receive a summons," Councillor Henderson interposed. "Do they expect us to send an officer out of town roaring down the highway after a motorist? They don't do it elsewhere."

"Yes and our own citizens get unfair treatment in other places but don't complain," Councillor Ross Linton stated.

Councillor A. J. Wilson thought the local police were most fair. "My experience tells me we are altogether too lenient. We are not strict enough."

"When the Ontario Motor League can run the provincial police and the town of Aurora, then I'll quit," said Mayor Walton, closing the debate. Council will hold a special session to deal with the report when it is received.

According to the accounts published in the Toronto dailies the commissioner is reported as having found speed traps to exist here. Citizens are generally indignant but refuse to comment at this time.

LIGHT TO BE

all this aired out a few weeks ago.

"I take full responsibility, as I went over the list on Saturday," said N. L. Mathews, K. C., clerk and solicitor.

"I suggest that they should be cut off at the end of two months," said Dr. Boyd. "We don't cut them off until they are four months in arrears," said Mr. Mathews.

"My light was cut off in the middle of my washing today," said the one lady.

"This woman paid $5 out of her own pocket last week and yet today she is cut off," said Mayor Boyd.

"I think $5 is a lot of money for her," said Councillor Mungovan.

"We spent $1,200 recently on a new billing machine, and it was supposed to speed up the work," said Councillor Frank Bowser. "I would like to know why 18 days have elapsed between reading of meters and the time the bill is sent."

"There are about 1,400 services to read and they can't all be read in a day," said Mr. Mathews.

"There is much more regularity now with the billing-machine than there used to be with the manual system," said Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale, who said he was unable to understand why the bills were not all out a little sooner after the completion of the reading of meters.

"Wesley Niles starts out to make the readings at the first of the month, starting outside the corporation," said C. C. Rachar, town electrical engineer. "He is done about the 15th. Morrison reads the commercial and power meters. It takes him about six days."

"Sometimes with holidays Niles may be a little longer. If he is, we put Morrison on to help him out."
